

Garland Granger, CPA, CIA, CFE

Mr. Granger is president of Professional Accounting Seminars, Inc. He worked 2 years in banking, 8 years in public accounting and is associate professor of accounting at Guilford College in Greensboro. Garland has taught the review course for the past 6 years in Charlotte. He taught a three-weekend review course for the Boston IIA chapter for six years. The course was offered twice a year and during that time over seven hundred attendees became CIAs. He has also taught the review course for the Columbia, SC IIA chapter for 33 years. He has been teaching accounting, internal audit, and fraud seminars for the past twenty-five years and has taught over 1,000 seminars in twenty states. He offers seminars to the public as well as teaching in-house seminars to CPA firms and major corporations. His passion is helping individuals pass the CIA exam through the review courses he teaches.
